

June 11, 2007

Ms. Marlene H. Dortch
Secretary
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, SW
Portals II, Room TW-A325
Washington, DC 20554

Re: Reply Comments
GN Docket No. 07-57

Dear Ms. Dortch:

I am writing to submit these reply comments in support of the merger of Sirius Satellite Radio and XM Radio.

I have been a Sirius subscriber since 2002 and have invested in the company since 1999. I thought when I first heard of Sirius that this had to be the next big thing. I have invested since then, and each year when I thought it would take off, I would watch my friends and family talk about their IPOD's, or their cell phones, MP3 players, their favorite local radio morning show and every other device that families now pay for that competes for their entertainment dollar. And I have realized overtime that satellite radio is one piece of the entertainment picture for the average American family. I don't believe that satellite radio even if it merges can raise it's prices, because Americans just won't spend the money.

In the end, both satellite companies could be successful on their own and the consumers would benefit, but consumers will benefit more if they merge at a lower cost and provide more programming options.

The ads I get in the newspaper every Sunday from Best Buy, Circuit City, and other electronic stores show the true marketplace. There are MP3's, IPOD's, Satellite Radio's, HD Radio's, Cell phones, and after market radios for terrestrial. They are all competing for American's entertainment dollar all across the country, from the largest market to the rural towns.

Thanks again, for giving me the opportunity to comment on this docket number, and reiterate my support for this merger.

Adrien Paquin